Dealer margins are in the single digit range for competitive systems' projects.	MORSPACE's low net price allows margins of up to 30% or more even in competitive situations.
Frame and tile systems are the product of choice in most bid specs.	MORSPACE is a stacking/de-stacking frame and tile system with 13 different tile options for less than the price of a monolithic system.
End users are demanding more flexibility in component placement and off-modular design.	MORSPACE has true off modular capabilities with panels, bins and worksurfaces.
Productivity and privacy issues have made stacking panels most desirable.	MORSPACE's stacking frames accommodate various levels of visual and acoustical privacy.
Power and data at work surface height has become the most requested option.	MORSPACE offers baseline and beltline power and data options.
Cable management has become increasingly more important due to the proliferation of network cabling.	MORSPACE offers multiple cable pathways, greater capacity and more flexibility than monolithic office systems.
